

29th GeSuS Linguistics Study Days, Society for Language and Languages

Theme

Fundamental linguistic research and its applications

Paris-Est-Creteil (UPEC), 8-10 June 2023

In cooperation with the University Sorbonne Nouvelle (CEREG)

On-site Conference

2nd Call for Papers

(10.01.2023)

Conveners: Valérie Bourdier (UPEC), Laure Gautherot (CEREG-Sorbonne Nouvelle), Malgorzata Jaskula (INSPE-UPEC), Anne Larrory-Wunder (CEREG-Sorbonne Nouvelle), Thérèse Robin (INSPE-UPEC)

After the conference in May 2022 at the University of Southern Denmark in Odense, the University of Paris-Est-Creteil (UPEC) along with the Department of Letters, Language and Human Sciences and the National Institute of Higher Education for Teachers in cooperation with the University of Sorbonne Nouvelle invite you to the 29th GeSuS Linguistics Days (<http://gesus-info.de/>), which will be held from 8 to 10 June 2023 at the University of Paris-Est in Créteil. We assume that the conference will be an on-site event. However, the individual thematic sections will have the opportunity to organise themselves in a hybrid format.

Since the very first meeting in Munich in 1992, the Society for Language and Languages (GeSuS – Gesellschaft für Sprache und Sprachen) has organised its annual Linguistics Days in several European countries. The Society dedicates itself to the research of language and languages in all linguistic sub-disciplines and is open to different theoretical approaches and frameworks. In 2023, the Linguistics Days will be held in Créteil (France) for the first time.

This year's theme 'Fundamental linguistic research and its applications' concerns the link between theoretical frameworks and their practical and concrete applications. Any study, whether historical or contrastive, any exploration of a given language needs to take place within a theoretical framework. Under this perspective, the 29th GeSuS Linguistics Study Days 2023 aim at focusing and discussing the link between theory and practical application as a means of gaining new insights in both domains.

Topic Areas

We welcome studies from the following topic areas:

- Phonology
- Morphology
- Syntax
- Semantics
- Pragmatics
- Discourse- and text linguistics
- Corpus linguistics
- Translation studies
- Language acquisition
- Language teaching
- Multilingualism in individuals, organisations and societies

Further proposals are welcome.

Here are the proposed and accepted thematic sections:

-Sprechakte und sprachliche Handlungsmuster in den Neuen Medien

(Dr Karolina Waliszewska, Karolina.Waliszewska@amu.edu.pl)

-Gegenwärtige Trends in der Linguistic-Landscape-Forschung

(Mgr. Jana Lauková, PhD. und PhDr, jana.laukova@umb.sk)

-Deutsch als Fremd- und Fachsprache

(Bianca Wieland, bianca.wieland@web.de) AKDaFF@web.de

-Von der Fachkommunikation(s)- zur Berufskommunikationsforschung

(Laurent Gautier, Laurent.Gautier@u-bourgogne.fr)

-Grammatik und Grammatiktheorie

(Pr.Dr Peter Öhl, oehl@jesus-info.de)

-Les sciences du langage à l'épreuve de leurs applications dans le domaine de la remédiation de l'écrit

(Sarah de Vogué, sarah.de.vogue@gmail.com)

-Interdisziplinäre Zugänge zum gegenwärtigen kulinarischen Diskurs

(Prof. dr hab. Joanna Szczek, joanna.szczek@uwr.edu.pl)

-Historische Linguistik

(Bela Brogyanyi,bbpfu@capitanio.org)

-Sprachliche Interferenzen

(Dr. habil. Maria Biskup, maria.biskup@uw.edu.pl)

The proposals with abstract are to be sent to the coordinator in charge of the thematic section and to Thérèse Robin (Therese.Robin@u-pec.fr)

Keynote Speakers

Eystein Dahl: Die Anwendung logischer Theorien in der linguistischen Forschung,

Vincent Martzloff et Barbora Machajdíkóvá: Dérivation inverse et formations rétrogrades en latin et dans d'autres langues: étude de quelques cas significatifs,

Peter Öhl: Sprachuniversalien, Sprachwandel, und die mentale Grammatik.

Conference Languages

The main languages of the conference are English, German and French. As the Linguistics Study Days support linguistic diversity, we welcome parallel language use with respect to papers and presentation; however, these should cover at least one of the main languages of the conference, such as providing presentation slides in English accompanied by a spoken presentation in German, or a handout in Polish accompanied by a spoken presentation in German.

Abstracts and Deadlines

Thematic Sections: Please send your proposal for new thematic sections until January 31st 2023, including a short description (approx. 200 words) in French, English or German, to therese.robin@u-pec.fr. The sections will be displayed on the conference website.

Papers and Posters

We kindly ask you to submit your abstracts (400 words including references for papers) for presentations (20 minutes presentation plus 10 minutes discussion time) or posters in French, English or German to Therese.Robin@u-pec.fr by February 28th 2023. Notification of acceptance no later than March 31st 2023.

Registration for participants until May 25th 2023 at the latest. A refund of the conference fee is unfortunately not possible after this date.

Conference Fee and Registration

The standard conference fee is 80 €. The conference fee for GeSuS members is 50 €, the reduced conference fee for full-time students, unemployed and retired persons is 20 €. This includes the publication of the conference proceedings.

Unwaged attendees (e.g., students) can apply to GeSuS for a travel grant, see <http://gesus-info.de/nachwuchsforderung/fordermoglichkeiten/> (in German).